SLR NABS NINE PRESALE

Leading Australian animation company SLR Productions has just inked a pre-sale deal with the Nine Network Australia for 52 x 12 minute episodes of its new animated children's series Gasp!

Gasp is a co-production with EM. Entertainment GmbH and Flying Bark Productions, formerly Yoram Gross-EM.TV, a wholly-owned subsidiary of EM. Entertainment GmbH.

The series is pitched at 8-12-year old children, and tells the adventures of a hyperactive goldfish. Gasp is based on the popular comic books of the same name by Australian author and illustrator Terry Denton.

SLR Productions CEO Suzanne Ryan is pleased to have the Nine Network on board again having previously worked with the network on her 13 x 30 minute series Deadly!

Gasp which is set to go into production in 2007, will be produced under the mantle of SLR Productions, EM.Entertainment and Flying Bark Productions.

“SLR is thrilled to be bringing the mad cap world of Terry Denton’s characters alive. Gasp is a little fish with a big personality and these fishy tales will surely bring our audience lots of laughs,” said SLR CEO Suzanne Ryan.

“Gasp is just one of a whole series of projects SLR has on its production slate and it fits in perfectly with the company’s wish to take much-loved children’s story books and turn them into classic children’s television,” said Ryan.

Susanne Schosser, Managing Director EM.Entertainment GmbH states: “We are excited to build on our flourishing relationship with SLR Productions and Nine Network Australia and are confident that the series will be popular just like the comic books.”
