

On the Case

Terrific twin detectives Lexi and Lottie sure have been busy cracking cases thanks to fresh episodes of their show and their cool new book series! They took a quick break from their super sleuthing to chat with us...

Hey guys! What is the coolest thing about being a twin?

Lottie: You've always got a best friend around who understands and loves you.

Lexi: Let's not forget we get to pull awesome twin tricks like pretending to be each other.

What do you admire most about each other?

Lexi: Lottie is sooooo logical, and such a details person. She never gives up combing through the details of a case until she's found a suspect or pieced it all together.

Lottie: Lexi's a great people person, and she thinks outside the box, which means she comes up with ideas that are so crazy they turn out to be right.

What is it like living in an animal park? Do you have a favourite animal?

Lexi: My favourite animal is my pet mouse Mozart, of course. But I love them all. Especially Charlie the Chimp. It was LOL the day he turned up at school and Principal Bollard had to chase him through the gym.

Lottie: I love Camilla our gorilla. She's super talented. She paints and she can speak to us in sign language!

Are there any important lessons that you have learnt while living in the park?

Lottie: Yes, so many. But mostly we just get to know all the animals, and learn what they like, so they feel part of the family.

Lexi: You need to listen to them. When Savannah our elephant was making strange rumbling noises, it was because she could tell her long lost sister, Sanura, was nearby in a travelling circus and they hadn't been together since they were babies. Elephants can communicate with each other up to 10 kilometres away.

The pair of you are only 12 years old, what inspired you to become detectives?

Lottie: When we were 4 years old, we solved a case. One of Dad's slippers went mysteriously missing. That

Mozart

Did you know... the twins' parents first met on a safari and then they set up the Animal Park in Appleton together? Aww!

Fun fact: Lexi is the more tech-savvy twin, while Lottie prefers old school detective tools like a magnifying glass and finger print dust!

night we staked out the second slipper and saw a fox coming to take it. It clearly wanted the pair.

Lexi: It was such an awesome feeling to solve a case, but also we love helping people and hate crime. Especially when it comes to our animals.

What is your trickiest or favourite case that you guys have solved?

Lottie: Hmm, tough question. Favourite? Probably catching the guy who stole our baby ermines to make fur coats. It was such a bad crime.

Lexi: Getting mixed up with a couple of real bank robbers was tricky. Especially when one of them held me captive.

What are some of your favourite disguises?

Lexi: I dressed as a clown to sneak into the circus when we had a suspect who worked there.

Lottie: Lexi's more the master of disguise, but it was fun when we dressed as each other to trick a security guard into thinking we were in two places at once.

What are your top tips for being an excellent detective?

Lottie: Carefully piece together the clues until you have all your evidence in place.

Lexi: Follow your hunches... those funny feelings you get when you just know your idea is right.

If you could pick ANYONE to solve a case with, whom would you pick?

Lexi: I can answer for Lottie! It has got to be Sherlock Holmes. Lottie loves him so much that when she was little she called her teddy bears Sherlock and Watson.

Lottie: Correct! That would be awesome. I think Lexi would pick Mozart. He's great at sniffing out clues.

Lexi: True, but he has been known to eat the evidence. LOL.
